THE HALIFAX FISHERY AWARD.

Salisbury's Reply to Secretary Evarts

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—Lord Salisbury in reply to Secretary Evarts dispatch concerning the Halifax fishery award, after recalling at considerable length the circumstances which led to the organization of the commission and quoting the decision given by a majority of the commissioners, says "In the dispatch which has been communicated to her majesty's government Mr Evarts seeks to invalidate the award upon the ground that in estimating the claims of Great Britain the commissioners must be assumed to have taken into consideration circumstances which the treaty of Washington had not referred to them. There is nothing upon the face of the award which gives any countenance to the supposition that the commissioners traveled beyond the limits assigned by the treaty. Mr Evarts estimates, at a very high value, the profits which British fishermen have derived from opening a market in the United States, and concludes that the sum fixed by the award is so much larger that these considerations would have justified that the U S government can only explain its magnitude on the assumption that the commission has mistaken the question that was referred to it The argument of Mr Evarts amounts to a review of their award upon a question of fact and pecuniary computation referred to them To argue against the validity of an award solely on the ground that the conclusion arrived at by the arbitrators on the very point referred to them is erroneous. Her majesty's government can not accept now as on similar occasions they have accepted before, the decision of a tribunal to which they have solemnly and voluntarily submitted At the close of his dispatch, Mr Evarts calls attention to the fact that the award of the commission was not unanimous, and that in the treaty of Washington no stipulation is in this case made that the decision of the majority is to be binding The opinion that, according to the treaty of Washington the fishery commission was incapable of pronouncing any decision unless its members were unanimous was one in which her majesty's government are unable to concur It is not difficult to produce from text books even of very recent date, authority for the doctrine that in international arbitrations a majority of the arbitrators binds the minority, unless the contrary is expressed. I am not aware of any authorities who, in respect to international arbitrations, could be quoted in a contrary sense and it would not be difficult to show by reference to cases in American as well as in English courts, that the same rule has always been judicially applied in the case of arbitrations of a public character The language and stipulations of the treaty itself, so far as they are explicit upon the subject, point to a similar conclusion The suggestion that the framers of the treaty meant by their silence to prescribe the mode of proceeding which renders a tribunal thus constituted is unexampled, can only be accepted on the hypothesis that they were deliberately preparing an insoluble controversy for those by whom the treaty was to be executed Lord Salisbury then enters into a lengthy argument in support of his position and concludes as follows If a tribunal were constituted on the principle that the plaintiff should choose one third and defendant another third, very few persons would be found to expose themselves to the cost of action at law. Had it been known 5 years ago that an award would be prevented by dissent of one of the members of an arbitration constituted on the same principle though I do not venture to conjecture what the course of the U. S. government would have been I am confident that England would have declined to enter upon so unfruitful a litigation Her majesty's government may appeal to equal proof that in accepting this arbitration they did not contemplate the award was liable to be prevented by requirement of unanimity, believing in the agreement with the majority of the commission, that they were to be heavy losers by the exchange of concessions contained in articles 18, 19 and 21 of the treaty They nevertheless have for 5 years allowed those concessions to come into force trusting to the compensation which the commission would give to them That they have done so is sufficient proof that they did not anticipate a construction of the treaty which would make the delivery of an award almost impossible. Is it conceivable that they should have deliberately constituted a tribunal for this purpose, in which decision could be wholly prevented by dissent of a member nominated by the party to whom the property had passed. Reciprocating cordially the courteous and friendly sentiments by which Mr Evarts' language is inspired, her majesty's government feel confident that the United States government will upon reflection, see in the considerations which have been advanced any sufficient reason for treating as a nullity the decision to which the majority of the commission have arrived, I have, etc.,

NEVADA.

Break in Stocks—Mining News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 18—The break in stocks this morning is attributed to manipulation of Nevada Block. There is nothing in the news from the Sierra Nevada cross cut to warrant such a smash Many press and private dispatches received from Virginia, are all to the same general tenor that the mine is looking well Ore in the cross cut on the 2 100 foot level hardly averages as good as expected but on the 2 200 foot level far exceeds anticipations in every respect One dispatch states that the cross cut had penetrated the ore body, and at first had gone in to barren rock and again into ore, which is explained by saying that the first ore struck was a rich place in the cap rock which was mistaken for the true ore body But now the real body has been reached Other dispatches deny that any such formation has been passed through but that the cross cut has been continued in rich ore since first striking it

"THE FIASCO OF CYPRUS"

A writer in the Nation describes in outspoken words the disenchantment of the British public concerning the acquisition of Cyprus There is now an unpleasant conviction that the island is nearly as unhealthy as the west coast of Africa A quarter of the small garrison is in the hospital and every season seems to have its peculiar malaria There are no roads no public buildings no harbors and no revenue with which to construct them The tenure on which Great Britain holds the island is uncertain, and so is the system of law by which it must be governed All this could, however be borne patiently if it possessed real strategic advantages—that is, if it offered a convenient base for the protection of the Euphrates valley or for the defense of the Turco Russian frontier in Asia

That it would serve this purpose the ministry undoubtedly in the beginning either believed or expected other people to believe But this notion already all but abandoned by the public, has received a coup de grace from Mr Archibald Forbes, after a prolonged visit to the island in an article in the Nineteenth Century entitled The Fiasco of Cyprus' His condemnation is all the more weighty from the fact that he too, he confesses was dazzled by annexation in the beginning, and does not dislike Imperialism He pronounces the place incurably unhealthy, too unhealthy even for the Ghoorkas, "children of the sun and of the swamp as they are" He shows that strategically its occupation was a huge blunder, or worse, an attempt at imposition As a post for the defense of the line of Batoum Ardahan-Kars, he compares it to a position in the middle of the shrubbery of a man's backyard for the defense of his front door Furthermore, he points out that England might be turned out of it at any time by an agreement between Turkey and Russia He scouts the idea of reforming the Turk in Asia Minor, and recommends that when the attempt to reform him has been tried for a few years, England should abrogate the treaty 'and evacuate Cyprus'

If it be asked, how came the ministers to assume such a burden of responsibility as the reform of Asia Minor, and to accept or ask for such a useless possession as Cyprus—of the character of which they were clearly ignorant?—the answer now generally acknowledged to be correct is that they did it in great haste and in a sort of desperation to cover up their defeat in the negotiations with Russia and turn public attention away from the unpleasant revelations of Lord Salisbury's double dealing made by the publication of the secret memorandum

That the exposure of the deception would come so soon probably few persons imagined when the two plenipotentiaries came home from Berlin but its promptness seems to have been due to their utter ignorance about the island They saw on the map that it lay near the coast of Asia, which was enough for the author of 'Tancred,' and they seized upon it with loud shouts as a most valuable prize It was very characteristic too, of the premier and his policy that he should have sent ten thousand men and a powerful fleet of iron clads to take possession of it, when one hundred policemen would have sufficed, and it looks as if luck had begun to run against him when we learn that eight thousand had to be promptly sent away, and that the keeping of the remaining two thousand there begins to be talked of as cruel as well as useless

We have however reserved to the last the most serious feature in the situation That Beaconsfield was worsted outwitted even at Berlin by Bismarck and Gortschakoff very few even of his admirers now deny The neutral continental press is almost unanimous in admitting it All the theatrical drapery by which he sought to disguise it has been ruthlessly torn down by the mere march of events Even the Journal Diplomatique, which has been his firm supporter against Russia admits that he committed a great and irreparable blunder in letting Russia get hold of Bulgaria and the Balkans which are really the key to Constantinople and must in the hands of a strong military power dominate it and second having committed this blunder in trying to repair it by the somewhat ridiculous expedients of the annexation of Cyprus and the Asiat protectorate, instead of becoming the patron of the Greeks, as he rising and able race of the Levant and pushing them into power and prominence It now seems likely that this mistake serious as it was was aggravated beyond measure by the quarrel in Afghanistan

NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN RAILROADS

A few days since we had by telegraph an extended account of the proceedings of a commercial convention at Chicago which pronounced in favor of aid to the Texas Pacific and Northern Pacific railroads The following are the resolutions in full They are comprehensive enough to meet the requirements of all sections only we should say that if the government is going to grant material aid—by which is meant money or bonds—for a southern railroad it should do the like also for a northern one.

Resolved That a combined prosperity of the agricultural manufacturing mining and commercial interests of the country cannot be secured without the development of commerce with other countries as will offer a ready and growing market for our surplus products and to insure this it is the duty of congress to promote and by all wise and constitutional measures aid the opening and improvement of such lines of transportation by land and water as are of general and national importance

Resolved That the high rates upon freight and passenger traffic charged by the Union Pacific Railroad make this the only highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a monopoly as burdensome as it is exclusive, and we call upon congress to take measures at the coming session to compel these corporations, which owe their existence to the liberality of the nation, to fulfill their corporate obligations.

Resolved That the interests of the government and the people alike demand the early completion of competing lines of railroad to the Pacific and we therefore earnestly desire congress to grant material aid to the Texas Pacific railroad and extend the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad

Resolved That direct trade with countries lying south of us, which is desired by them and will be most profitable to us cannot be entered upon if conducted successfully without mail facilities which is the province of the government to furnish and we therefore recommend an immediate provision by congress for an ocean mail service between the chief ports of the United States and all important commercial points on the coast of South America in American built and owned ships

Deciphering the Ciphers

[Interview with Whitelaw Reid in Indianapolis Journal]

"How did you hit on the keys?"

"Merely by experiment and guess work. The first key was discovered simultaneously by two men, working separately

"Then you had copies taken of the original?"

"O, yes we kept the original under lock and key and had them carefully copied and printed in slips Then we all tried a hand. When the boys went off for their vacation they took proofs of the ciphers and worked on them "

"And some got one key and some another?"

"Yes we studied the cipher system and bought all sorts of dictionaries and the circle of investigation widened and at last those in the van treed the game

Have you seen any of the parties implicated?" I asked

No, I think not recently I met Tilden, by the way in August up at Saratoga, and I told him that we had all the cipher dispatches that went between his house and Florida and asked him, laughingly for the key I told him we couldn't make head or tail to them, and wanted him to help us He smiled and blushed innocent as a baby and passed on but the next morning he came around and told me seriously that he knew nothing about any such dispatches "

Do you know of any cipher dispatches incriminating Republicans?"

No, I don't believe there are any There are Republican cipher dispatches but Chandler, who sent or received them offered to translate them for Potter's committee and the offer was declined I believe every one is creditable to Republicans

A Russian Army of Two Million Men.

[From the Invalide Russe]

The Russian ministry of war is at present engaged upon the elaboration of plans of important military reforms which it is proposed to carry into effect immediately after the return of the troops from Turkey These plans contemplate a reorganization of the whole Russian army The battalions of the infantry regiments which have hitherto been made up of from 800 to 1 000 men, will henceforward be raised to a stretch of 1 500 Every cavalry regiment is to be increased by two squadrons The effect of these changes will be to add to the active army 350 000 men The organization of the reserves will also undergo considerable modification The reserve corps which is distributed into twenty-four divisions will be kept under arms in time of peace This will secure an additional force of about 250,000 men ready at any moment to take the field It is further proposed to increase the yearly contingent of recruits to 70 000 The artillery is to be rearmed with guns of superior manufacture and greater range than the present weapons The peace establishment of the reserve artillery will consist of twenty-four brigades Finally, the period of military service will be reduced to three years All this will lead to brilliant results for in the course of a few years we shall be able to produce an army of 2 000 000 combatants

Starting a Boy.

[From the Detroit Free Press]

A lonesome looking boy was yesterday hanging around a wood yard in the northern part of the city, when the owner of the yard having both charity and philanthropy for boys with tears in their eyes, asked the lad why he didn't peddle apples or do something to earn a few shillings The boy replied that he had no capital, and the wood yard man took out a nickel and said

Now my boy I'm going to start you in life Take this nickel and go and make a purchase of something or other I'll buy it of you for 10 cents no matter what it is Come now let's see what sort of a business head you have on you

The boy took the nickel and went off but in ten minutes was back with a gallon jug which he had purchased with the nickel

Well you are a keener, replied the man I never saw one of those sold for less than fifteen cents to any one want such a jug and here's its fair price Go now and lay out your fifteen cents in apples and I'll buy half your stock

The boy did not return Perhaps he fell into a sewer somewhere but you can't make the wood yard man believe so When he lifted the jug from under the table, where the boy had carefully placed it, he found a hole in the bottom large enough to let in a black and tan terrier

Cincinnati no Longer "Porkopolis."

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer]

The receipts of hogs in the Cincinnati market yesterday amounted in round numbers to 6 000 in Chicago they were 35 000 in St Louis 6 000 in Indianapolis 3 000 making a total of 50 000 hogs in the four western cities that are supposed to control the hog product and two thirds of this amount in Chicago alone This last fact is perhaps a little embarrassing to Cincinnati which for a quarter of a century held undisputed claim to being the hog market of the country Chicago has the advantage in this of being the central market for a vast hog producing section the one point toward which it all tends for reshipment east and for export a distributing point in fact for the vast area embraced in the states of Illinois Iowa Wisconsin Minnesota and Michigan while the territory that formerly was tributary to Cincinnati has of late years become more circumscribed by the opening up of rival markets in all the smaller cities and the establishment of new lines of transportation ... the greater part of the product is shipped east direct, without coming here at all

FINANCIAL CRISIS IN ENGLAND

Advices from London give information that a great financial crash appears now to be impending and that all the signs which commonly precede such an event are now observed. A great strain has been put upon the commercial affairs of Great Britain. Primarily this is owing to a depression of her industries, and this again is largely due to the diminished call for British products in foreign markets. It is not easy indeed to see how this can improve. The markets that will take English manufactures are growing narrower in many parts of the world and perhaps are nowhere enlarging. Many countries which England once supplied are now competing successfully with her manufactures, and the tendency with them is more and more toward industrial independence. It is evident that the trouble in the United Kingdom is extremely serious. The great failures so frequently occurring have shaken confidence and created something almost like a panic. It would seem that the unsafe state of industry and trade has not been apparent even to the minds of bankers and thus they have made large advances to unsafe houses. The Glasgow bank, whose failure has produced far-reaching disaster, was in its system, somewhat like our old state banks. Its circulating notes and assets were on a gold basis. But there was no rigid examination by direction of law into its affairs, or checks and securities such as our national banking system provides. This event again demonstrates that no banking system is a safe one in which the directors control both the security and the circulation. The public is at the mercy of the corporation and the stockholders have no protection against imbecile or dishonest directors. The experience of the old banking system under control of the states often showed that when gold, or security was wanted, it was not there. Our present banking system is proof against such collapses, and under our system of examinations it is morally impossible for a national bank to concentrate its resources, as the Glasgow bank did, upon a rotten firm. But should it commit an indiscretion it cannot impair the security of its circulation.

RAINFALL

From a map publisher of Chicago we have a chart representing the differences and amount of rainfall in various parts of the United States. Owing to the vast extent of our country and the number, altitude and direction of its mountain chains we have great varieties of climate, both as respects temperature and humidity, hence we find the rainfall varying from four inches in portions of the great interior basin between the Rocky mountains and the Sierra to as much as 80 inches on portions of the upper Pacific slopes. In the Mississippi valley there is much difference of rainfall, Minnesota having only about 24 inches, including the estimate for melted snow while Missouri receives 44 inches and Tennessee and northern Mississippi still more. Taken generally, the eastern side of the Mississippi valley receives more rain than the western. The gauge at Denver, Colorado shows an average of but twelve inches a year. The entire Atlantic coast is well watered, and the precipitation is on the whole very evenly distributed, ranging from 36 to 48 inches. Prof. Arnold Guyot, who has supplied in Johnson's cyclopædia the principal articles relating to physical geography and climate remarks that, "The amount of rain on the Pacific coast increases northward, and the region of winter rains goes far beyond its natural limits on that side of the continent; while in the east the amount of rain decreases toward the north according to the natural law. This remarkable anomaly in the rains of the southern states is explained by the vast indentation forming the Gulf of Mexico, which like a great boiler supplies the return trade winds that prevail throughout the summer with a large amount of vapor." Our high mountain chains on the Pacific slope, running parallel for thousands of miles with the coast line, exert a special influence on rainfall even more remarkable. To this influence mainly we owe the humidity that assures the annual fertility of our soil.

JOAQUIN MILLER

Our Oregon poet's new string of "fresh fish from Helicon" receives notice from all the principal literary journals of London. This last catch he calls "Songs of Far away Lands." Longmans are his publishers. The Athenæum gives a review which appears to voice the general opinion. "The author's first venture," it says, "brought him reward such as [illegible] not often attend long years of labor. [illegible]lish critics hailed it as 'the advent of [illegible] singer,'" and congratulated America upon "having at length given birth to a poet worthy of her and owing little or nothing to inherited influences or transmitted culture." But the Athenæum does not find that Mr Miller has made any progress. "There are the same virile force, the same keen accurate and [illegible]minute observations of nature, the same passion and the same glow and fervor of color. With the same merits there are also the same defects. The whole is crude and often vicious in style, unequal in workmanship and extravagant and almost grotesque in sentiment." The only changes which it finds are the influence of familiarity with European scenes and an augmenting appreciation of Mr Swinburne. Still knowledge of civilized life has done little toward polishing the poet of the Sierras. He is still the half reclaimed savage he has chosen to represent himself. He started on his poetical career with his judgment and his feelings alike enslaved to Byron and now if he is running to Swinburne it would seem to justify the pungent criticism offered by the New York Times literary correspondence from London, an extract from which we recently reprinted.

There is a proposition now instead of making an honest silver dollar to make a dishonest gold one. It is suggested that the value of the gold dollar be reduced to an equation with the silver dollar of acknowledged inferior value. That this scheme of debasing the gold coinage of the country will have advocates in congress is probable enough. The ignorant and dishonest will alike support it. The idea of the ignorant is that anything which the law calls a dollar is a dollar, and they do not look far enough to see that if the value of the dollar is reduced the quantities of all things sold for such a dollar must be reduced in the same proportion. With the dishonest class the idea is to get a cheap dollar with which to pay debts public and private. The silver dollar law was passed in or[illegible] defeat resumption and swindle [illegible] t does not immediate[illegible] bring [illegible] ensured therefore the next gold coinage be debased to the level of the silver dollar. By this method debts could be paid with coins worth about 83 cents in the dollar and this though it is not so sweeping an act against creditors as the fiat money scheme would be nevertheless offers quite a hopeful prospect of a considerable swindle and is therefore worth the attention of a class of our statesmen of the Jack Cade party.

A Washington newspaper of recent date publishes a long account of the views of George F Seward United States minister to China on those topics which are usually grouped in our discussions under the name of the Chinese question. Mr Seward is now in Washington, and the care bestowed upon the statements put forth in the form of a report of an interview indicates that he had given the statement a careful revision. Probably no American has more extensive knowledge of the Chinese in their own country. He does not think there is danger that they will emigrate in very large numbers or that they are now coming to America in sufficient numbers to justify alarm. China he avers is by no means so populous as is generally believed, and however great the population the soil will support more than are now found upon it.

Geo C Gorham, secretary of the senate of the United States, is now in California. He is said to be laying plans for the next political canvass. The Alta taking alarm at this, because Gorham's intermeddling has always brought defeat, boldly declares that for the success of the Republicans in that state it is absolutely necessary that the party shall be divorced from Geo C Gorham and his professional followers and their machinations. Without the interference of these political ringsters California is a Republican state but it will never be carried by the Republicans under the leadership of the Gorham clique. What was done lately in Oregon is likely to happen in California. There is a class of men whom the party is resolved to shake off and Gorham is one of the most conspicuous of this class. The Alta's article is a very earnest warning.

It is ascertained that the late secretary of state made enormous allowances for conveying the insane to the asylum. The Dalles Inland Empire mentions a case in which the cost to the state was $342 for conveying a patient 304 miles, and another in which it was $121 for a distance of 125 miles. The Dalles paper says that a life long Democrat a member of the legislative investigating committee tells it that "in his belief no southern state under carpet bag rule has been worse plundered than Oregon in the past eight years!" and it is prepared to believe that the investigations will reveal something approaching to wholesale robbery.

Straddling the Resumption Problem

[From the New York World Dem]

Senator Kernan, we are sorry to see, was compelled by the Tammany office holders whom he was addressing, to straddle the resumption problem thus: "The interest of the commercial and mercantile portion of the community as well as that of the laboring class required that the currency of the country should only be that which was at par all over the world—a currency that would not vary from day to day and be constantly cheating somebody—a currency every dollar of which should be worth a dollar of coin. Gold and silver should be the only standard of value, and the paper should be redeemable in those metals only." But in which metal? A laboring man is now paid in a treasury note worth 99½ cents in gold. Is that note to be redeemed next January in a gold coin worth $1, or in a silver coin worth 89 cents?

In the Hartford Courant's opinion Tilden will go down to history as the man who very nearly bought his way into the White House and failed at last not so much from lack of opportunity as from indecision.

AMUSEMENTS.

Davy Crockett —On the occasion of the first appearance in this city after the lapse of nearly seventeen years of Mr Frank Mayo New Market Theater was packed last evening From orchestra to gallery every seat was occupied and even standing room was at a premium Frank S Murdock s beautiful idyllistic play of "Davy Crockett" was presented for the first time in the history of the drama in Portland Mr Mayo of course personated the leading role and certainly, of Mr Mayo s interpretation of this character too much cannot be said His language is the poetry of nature his acting the simplicity of art This portraiture of a pure and rugged passion earnest and single in its purpose in the breast of a simple and hardy child of nature is refreshing to the jaded sensibilities of the sons and daughters of civilized life and perhaps suggestive also It holds the sympathies of an audience with exceptional power But in commending the sentiment one must not forget its interpreter There are few such faithful and polished impersonations upon the boards as Mr Mayo gives to this part Fashioned by nature for the part (as admirably upon him to character that we know of is better looked With all the resources of his physical adaptation art the training and years of constant repetition it is not strange that he gives us a fine piece of character acting but this hardly satisfies the spectator who seeks a reason for the uncommon flavor of the character—for the subtle charm with which he invests it Every position he assumes is a perfect and charming picture In truth the play lacks dramatic consecutiveness and to a great extent symmetrical unity but may be considered as a series of charming idyllistic pictures To properly criticise Davy Crockett would be an impossible task Those who have not seen this romantic play should not fail to do so. No one can form the least conception of its subtle charm or appreciate the beauties of the character without seeing it The support was very good Miss Georgie Woodthorpe as Eleanor Vaughan was very acceptable though scarcely up to the requirements of so important a character The little lady has made wonderful proficiency in the dramatic art since her appearance last winter With study and training Miss Woodthorpe can scarcely fail to succeed in the profession she has chosen The other characters were entrusted to competent hands. Following is the distribution of characters Oscar Crampton John S Lindsay Parson J M Ward Neil Crampton A C Sutherland Major Royston J B Robinson Yonkers B J Wade Big Dan R C White Briggs Charles Allen Bob Crockett Master Kilday Dame Crockett Miss Jean Clara Walters Little Sal Miss Laura White Little Sal Miss McClellan The piece was superbly mounted Davy Crockett again to night.

A Fine Artist —Manager Maguire is to be complimented on the fact that he has secured the services of so fine a scenic artist as Mr W T Porter Several of the scenes last evening in Davy Crockett were perfect triumphs of scenic art. His scenes in the first, and also the second and third, acts were simply magnificent When the curtain ascended and disclosed the superb production of his inventive brain and clever hand prolonged applause followed More handsome and appropriate mountings could not be desired Mr Porter is a first-class artist, and we are gratified to note that his work is duly appreciated

Pillmer s Entertainment which was postponed at East Portland on account of illness will take place at Odd Fellows Hall on to morrow evening 20th inst

PORTLAND BETHEL MEETINGS

The meetings held under the auspices of the Portland Seamen s Friend Society have been crowded with great blessings and are attended with gratifying results Any one may notice how large a number of seamen and officers strangers in the city have attended the meetings at the rooms of the Y M C Association during the weeks past

Not less than thirty seamen have taken the pledge of total abstinence within the past three weeks at the open temperance meetings on Saturday evenings at the Bethel [illegible] the week of prayer just closed at [illegible] faring men have testified [illegible] to God through [illegible] labors of those who have [illegible] meetings have been [illegible] meetings on [illegible] directed

This gratifying work has been promoted by the labors of Christians of the several churches co operating on shipboard on Sabbath days at 2 P M and more recently in week evenings on board the [illegible] The captain of this vessel has afforded every facility in these labors The meetings in his commodious cabin have been very precious seasons and at least two thirds of his crew have been savingly acquainted with the truth as it is in Jesus And the work has extended to the crews of other vessels—the Cortez, the Robert L and the [illegible] One or more seamen of each of these ships have been converted

The meeting on the [illegible] yesterday was a very interesting one Several captains and many seamen besides numerous citizens were present and marked attention was paid to the chaplain s appeals based upon the Word of God

To night to morrow and Friday evenings prayer meetings are to be held on board the [illegible] at 7½ o clock A most cordial invitation is extended to the crews of the ships in port their commanders and officers as well as to citizens by the captain and chaplain

It is but one year ago since the Portland Seaman s Friend Society was auspiciously organized in the Taylor street M E church—by the co operation of the Protestant pastors of this city

Attention is directed to the large increase of seamen in our worshiping assemblies and in your experience meetings because these are fair indications that God has accepted this effort of His people among the men of the sea and set His approving seal thereon To God alone be all the glory Brethren and sisters pray for us

A WONDERFUL CURE BY DR D HALL McLENNAN, JR.

SWORN STATEMENT OF A POOR AND INVALID

Cure of Dyspepsia and Chronic Diarrhoea.

For the benefit of suffering humanity I deem it my imperative duty to make known to the public what has been done for me by Dr C M Wood Having been subject to dyspepsia for some 12 or 14 years and continuing to grow worse until about four months ago when it ran into chronic diarrhoea and assumed a very dangerous condition—so much so that I found I would be compelled to stop my duties or find some relief and having seen one of Dr Wood s circulars I concluded to consult him and finally to be treated by him for one month the result of which I give in a few words I feel that I am as sound as I ever have been and that so far as my disease is concerned I am perfectly cured

Financial matters are quiet the supply of loanable funds being ample to meet the prevailing demand which is not extensive at all excepting the call from parties engaged in the wheat trade Rates have not changed though the market from some quarters is reported easier

In San Francisco at latest mail dates money was exceedingly plentiful and parties were anxious to invest large amounts in any satisfactory enterprise

The market for domestic produce manifests a fair degree of activity wheat buyers standing ready to take all offering at current rates as some of them are [illegible] contracts or to complete cargoes of vessels [illegible] The feeling at the same time is that under the present condition and prospects of the market abroad nothing can be expected to be made by purchasing at $1 6[illegible] [illegible] here and shipping to Europe The question might be asked Why then should business men pay this price and suffer the loss? The answer is that the vessels are under charter and perhaps the cargo itself may be already sold and as a loss would follow the failure to load the vessel or to ship the cargo the [illegible] must take the most advantageous horn of the dilemma and get the wheat at whatever price they can We have thus tried to explain this matter because farmers have said that wheat shippers were not honest in the claim that the market was often higher here than the prices in England warranted

Receipts of breadstuffs continue quite liberal though falling below the aggregate of last year While the shipments to San Francisco have been large this season those to Great Britain are but little more than half what they were during the same time in 1877 California has hardly exported as much as was expected but still her exports from July 1st to the middle of the current month were quadruple the amount during the corresponding period of last season

There are now in this port and in the river fifteen vessels under engagement a number of which have their cargoes about completed others having received none or only a small portion

It would seem from the most reliable data that the demand of the European markets will be quite as great as in any former year but all the grain growing countries have generally good crops except France and America though the leading source of supply has still several competitors that every year pour large quantities of their surplus into the markets of demand shipping more when other business is depressed as this year and less when times are brisk and the financial needs not so urgent

On Mondays our local market is seldom largely attended by sellers and it is generally a quiet day to which this has not been an exception Prices for produce generally are firm at our last quotations with no changes worthy of extended notice Flour is in good demand both for the local trade and for shipment Oats are quiet and steady with a good demand for choice lots. Dairy products of choice quality are readily taken at the prices last quoted Bacon and lard are in active demand Seasonable fruits and vegetables are abundant, prices weak

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Difficult Diseases,

He has astonished the People of his Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases, Catarrh Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States Diseases of the stomach bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES

to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for this great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION,

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them, they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M BRENAN the Medical Lecturer and read his sign on his door.

Office, 63 First street, over McCormick's Franklin Bookstore.
